

List of useful locations:

Google Maps does not provide reliable transit directions in Korea due to local restrictions. We recommend downloading NAVER Maps (better for English) or Kakaomaps. We made a NAVER list with useful places to make your transportation easier: <https://naver.me/xMnVnG5Z>

Public transportation:

Seoul's public transportation is frequent, punctual, inexpensive, and safe. Stops and announcements are usually available in English. You must use a transportation card, which you scan when entering and exiting buses and subways. Cards can be bought at any convenience store (including at the airport). Some esim packages include a T-money card.

- Tmoney/EZL/cashbee (~5₩, ~2-3₩/trip): valid in Seoul and most major cities for subways and buses. Most trips cost ~2-3₩ (red buses are more expensive), and the transfer is free within 30'. You can charge it with cash only at any convenience store. They can also be used to pay at convenience stores and some vending machines.
- Climate card (1-day to 30-day pass): After buying it at a convenience store, you can charge it on dedicated vending machines in subway stations. Note that it excludes some buses and lines outside Seoul (e.g. airport and red buses, see <https://english.seoul.go.kr/policy/transportation/climate-card/>)

Taxi:

Use the KakaoT app. Uber exists, but usually dispatches Kakao taxis. Most taxis accept cards.
